DayJet Fills Gaps in Regional Travel with 30 Percent Expansion of “Per-Seat, On-Demand” Service Network

Continues Service Expansion to Southeastern Communities
Affected by Regional Air Service Reductions

BOCA RATON, Fla.—July 9, 2008—DayJet Corporation today announced a 30 percent expansion of its “Per-Seat, On-Demand” service network with the addition of two primary DayPort™ and 14 secondary DayStop™ markets. Orlando and St. Petersburg-Clearwater, Florida are the latest DayPort markets to gain direct connectivity to more than 60 community airports across Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Since the launch of its “Per-Seat, On-Demand” jet service last October, DayJet has tripled its core DayPort service network. In Florida alone, 83 percent of the state’s population now lives within 40-miles of a DayPort airport. With today’s service expansion, the company is continuing to grow “Per-Seat, On-Demand” service operations into Southeastern states with the addition of new DayStop markets in Anderson, SC; Asheville, NC; Atlanta, GA; Athens, GA; Birmingham, AL; Gulfport, MS; Greenville, SC; New Orleans, LA; Rock Hill, SC; and Tuscaloosa, AL.

“As commercial carriers continue to reduce service in response to rising fuel costs, the communities beyond airline hubs suffer the consequences,” stated Ed Iacobucci, DayJet president and CEO. “The rapid contraction of regional transportation options is causing many Southeastern communities to become increasingly isolated. With few or no flight options, business travelers in these communities are forced to spend more time on travel. We are solving this problem today by expanding our efficient and affordable jet service to the communities that need it the most.”

Shrinking Transportation Options

The nation’s air transportation system is facing a crisis. Nowhere is this more evident than in short-haul, small- and medium-sized markets. As scheduled airlines improve efficiency by focusing on higher-volume markets, flying larger aircraft less frequently and on longer flights, business professionals conducting regional business operations are losing most of their air travel options. This year alone, regional air carriers have scaled back, eliminated or announced plans to withdraw service from medium and small communities around the country – including many current DayJet markets in Florida such as Gainesville, Naples, Orlando, Pensacola, Sarasota and St. Petersburg-Clearwater in addition to Montgomery, Alabama and Savannah, Georgia. Hundreds more markets nationwide are expected to suffer further service reductions by year’s end.

Marcos Marchena, Chair of Florida Transportation Commission, stated: “We always encourage travel alternatives for Floridians. We know better mobility means better economic development. DayJet represents a creative travel alternative with a focus on convenience. With 83 percent of Florida’s population residing within 40 miles of a DayPort airport, business travelers statewide will now have even more affordable options.”

St. Petersburg: Birthplace of Scheduled Aviation

DayJet will operate from fixed based operator (FBO) Sheltair Aviation Services at St. Petersburg-Clearwater International Airport (PIE). St. Petersburg-Clearwater is situated on Florida’s West Coast in Pinellas County along Tampa Bay – the nation’s 19th largest metropolitan area with a total population of 2.7 million. Recognized for strong job growth and high quality of life, St. Petersburg-Clearwater is also known as the birthplace of scheduled aviation.

St. Petersburg Deputy Mayor Dave Metz said: “DayJet is a breath of fresh air to communities like St. Petersburg. The ability to fly DayJet direct to more than 60 destinations across the southeast is a strategic boost to our existing air service.”

Orlando: Business Hot Spot

DayJet will operate from fixed based operator (FBO) Sheltair Aviation Services at Orlando Executive Airport (ORL). Located in central Florida’s Orange County, Orlando is the nation’s 27th largest metropolitan area with a total population over 2 million. Consistently ranked among the strongest economies in the country, Orlando is recognized internationally as an innovation hot spot and top city for entrepreneurs and business.
However, the Official Airline Guide reports that the number of scheduled seats departing Orlando is expected to drop by nearly 6,900 per day, and by next December, there will be 13 percent fewer seats available on scheduled flights.

Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer stated: “Orlando is one of the most popular destinations in the world in terms of air travel. Adding DayJet service at Orlando Executive Airport complements our existing air transportation infrastructure and provides business travelers with more direct jet service to and from Orlando to the places they do business.”

About “Per-Seat, On-Demand” Jet Service

DayJet has developed the world’s first “Per-Seat, On-Demand” jet service that makes the convenience of corporate jet travel broadly available and affordable for more people and organizations, turning wasted travel time into valuable business and personal time. “Per-Seat” means customers only pay for the seat(s) they need, not the entire aircraft. “On-Demand” means customers fly according to their individually negotiated time requirements. Business travelers can now book just the seat that they need aboard DayJet’s fleet of Eclipse 500™ very light jets (VLJs); customize travel according to their time and budget requirements; fly point-to-point between regional destinations; and return home in a single day.

About DayJet

DayJet is the largest fleet operator of next-generation very light jet (VLJ) aircraft and the pioneer of a new type of regional business travel. “Per-Seat, On-Demand” jet service is sold by the individual seat and customized for each passenger’s unique time and budget requirements—prices start at a modest premium to full-fare economy coach airfares. Headquartered in Boca Raton, Florida, DayJet is the first 100% all-digital air carrier. Combined with the speed and efficiency of Eclipse 500 VLJ aircraft, DayJet “Per-Seat, On-Demand” jet service has created the next major advance in corporate productivity and regional economic development. Connecting Florida’s Leading Job Markets to 60 Destinations across the Southeast, Fueling Economic Growth and Productivity

Dave Metz, Deputy Mayor of St. Petersburg: “DayJet is a breath of fresh air to communities like St. Petersburg. The ability to fly DayJet direct to more than 60 destinations across the southeast is a strategic boost to our existing air service.”

Noah Lagos, Airport Director, St. Petersburg-Clearwater International Airport: “DayJet’s ‘Per-Seat, On-Demand’ jet service is the ideal complement to traditional scheduled jet service. PIE’s airline service caters principally to the leisure flier. With DayJet, we are now able to offer the business traveler direct, time sensitive, travel to many new destinations. DayJet’s new model of ‘door to door’ air service is a real asset in supporting business enterprise in Pinellas County and the entire Tampa Bay region.”

John Long, President & CEO, St. Petersburg Area Chamber of Commerce: “Whether you are a Fortune 500 company or a small local business, a teleconference cannot always replace a face-to-face meeting. Fostering strong personal relationships has helped many area businesses succeed. It is becoming more and more difficult to balance travel budgets with business needs, but DayJet provides St. Petersburg executives with a new service and tools to improve connectivity with customers and partners throughout the Southeast.”

Kevin O. Gartland, Interim President/CEO, Clearwater Regional Chamber of Commerce: “DayJet’s arrival at St. Pete/Clearwater Airport has kicked-open the door to a world of opportunities for our area’s business community. We all know that time is money, so having the ability to travel on your own schedule – without worrying about traffic jams, long check-in lines, remote parking hassles, tedious security screening and the ever-present threat of flight delays – is like money in the bank!”

Suzanne Christman, Senior Manager Business Development, Pinellas County Economic Development: “The ability for local businesses and their partners to travel efficiently and cost effectively is critical to sustaining a growing local economy. DayJet is expanding direct travel options for local companies and entrepreneurs, creating opportunities within the community and making it easier to do business in our region. We're delighted they've selected Pinellas County as a focus for their expansion efforts.”
